Comprehension:

Read the passage carefully and answer the questions that follow:

Although coal was used as a fuel for centuries, not until the 18th century did it begin to replace wood as the dominant fuel in the Western world. Since then, coal has had a significant impact on human history. It was coal that powered the steam engine and supplied the energy for the Industrial Revolution, which began in the mid-18th century. Today utility companies use coal to produce electricity, and heavy industries use coal for steel production. Coal consumption has surged in recent years, particularly in the rapidly growing economies of China and India, both of which have large coal reserves.

Coal is found in different grades, largely as a result of the varying amounts of heat and pressure it was exposed to during formation. Coal exposed to high heat and pressure during its formation is drier, is more compact (and therefore harder), and has higher heating value (that is, a higher energy density).

Comprehension:

The post-independence land-reforms adopted broadly on the basis of the Kumarappa Committee. This Committee took, as its guiding principle, the elimination of exploitation and giving the land to the tiller. Bihar Pradesh Kisan Sabha (BPKS) was founded in 1929. It established a national presence in 1936 as the All India Kisan Sabha (AIKS). Swami Sahajanand Saraswati dominated the provincial organisations, and emerged as the foremost Kisan leader in India, and also headed BPKS in 1935. The formation of Congress Ministry in Bihar in 1937 accelerated the process of showdown between the two organizations. Zamindars offered their help and co-operation in passing tenancy laws to improve the condition of the tenants. The post-colonial India including Bihar witnessed the emergence of the Congress as the dominant party in the political system. In 1952 elections, Jharkhand Party was the main opposition party inside the state legislature.

The important consequences of the 1952 general elections in Bihar were the emergence of two regional political party, the Jharkhand Party and the Janta Party. The Janta Party was founded in 1950 by Raja Kamakhya Narayan Singh to built up a traditional opposition to Congress. Its political influence was confined mainly in south-Bihar. Until 1967, Bihar witnessed a one party dominance system i.e. the 'Congress system' as conceptualized by Rajni Kothari. Between 1967-69, elections witnessed a highly fractionalized multi-party system. The decline in the Congress electoral strength has benefitted socialists and communists on the one hand, and the Jan Sangha on the other hand.

Comprehension:

The post-independence land-reforms adopted broadly on the basis of the Kumarappa Committee. This Committee took, as its guiding principle, the elimination of exploitation and giving the land to the tiller. Bihar Pradesh Kisan Sabha (BPKS) was founded in 1929. It established a national presence in 1936 as the All India Kisan Sabha (AIKS). Swami Sahajanand Saraswati dominated the provincial organisations, and emerged as the foremost Kisan leader in India, and also headed BPKS in 1935. The formation of Congress Ministry in Bihar in 1937 accelerated the process of showdown between the two organizations. Zamindars offered their help and co-operation in passing tenancy laws to improve the condition of the tenants. The post-colonial India including Bihar witnessed the emergence of the Congress as the dominant party in the political system. In 1952 elections, Jharkhand Party was the main opposition party inside the state legislature.

The important consequences of the 1952 general elections in Bihar were the emergence of two regional political party, the Jharkhand Party and the Janta Party.
